Reid.pdf;

Good morning,

Thank you or your previous email. We note its contents.

Please find our attached signed Letter of Authority signed by our client dated 04/03/2026.

Furthermore, in relation to your wet signature, there are no specifications or requirements in which the SAR is to come over with wet ink.

The information provided allows you to see we have authority to act on behalf of our client, together with their ID and said form of authority.

The only requirement for a traditional wet-ink signature is for specific legal documents that demand a higher level of formality such as land transactions and wills.

A wet ink-signature for personal data is not required and as such, we look forward to your confirmation that you will now progress our SAR.

Should your position remain the same, please urgently clarify in writing before 5pm 28th May 2026.

May we take this opportunity to remind you that we are under no obligations to provide you with any audit trials and any request for specific disclosure would need to be made via legal action.

We have provided a perfectly legible SAR request, with our Clients identification together with a signed letter of authority and their ID, all of which have been dated within the last 6 months. We are not obliged to provide anything further.

We look forward to hearing from you in due course.

Kind regards,

James
