

ADDENDUM

In very recent times there appears to be a more serious level of breakdown of relationships within the family home. This breakdown comes from the very fragile relationship between Paul and his father, [REDACTED], but obviously has a negative effect on the rest of the family, causing further upset and stress to all.

A recent example is the evening of the 13/09/02 when the relationship between Paul and [REDACTED] had such a negative effect Paul left the family home, as he believed he was causing too much distress to his mum and siblings. He was eventually picked up by the police, taken to the station and was returned to Moore House School by EDT.

Moore House School staff have received conflicting reports from [REDACTED], who states Paul was violent towards the Police officers when they picked him up, and the Police who state there was no such problem with Paul. This is not the first incident of such varying reports.

There is also recent reports that state that Paul's placement at Elmbank is not working as planned, and may have to be reviewed.
